In order to provide the most effective healing environment, the most effective application of chiropractic procedures, and the strongest possible doctor-patient relationship, it is essential for both parties to be working toward the same objective. It is important that each person understand both the objective and the method that will be used to attain this goal. This will prevent any confusion or disappointment.

- Chiropractic is a very specific science, authorized by law to address spinal health concerns and needs. It is not the practice of medicine.
- Chiropractic seeks to maximize the inherent healing power of the human body by restoring normal nerve functions through the adjustments of vertebral subluxation(s). Subluxations are deviations from normal spinal structures and configurations, and considered to be a partial dislocation. A subluxation that interferes with normal nerve processes is called a neuro-structural shift.
- The chiropractic adjustment process, as defined in the law of this jurisdiction, involves the application of a specific directional thrust to a region or regions of the spine with the specific intent of re-positioning misaligned spinal segments. This is a safe, effective procedure applied over one million times a day with doctors of chiropractic in the United States alone.
- Chiropractic does not seek to replace or compete with your medical, dental, or other type(s) of health professionals. They retain responsibility for care and management of medical conditions. We do not offer advice regarding treatment prescribed by others.

Informed Consent For Chiropractic Care

Chiropractic Care, like all forms of health care while offering considerable benefits may also provide some level of risk. This level of risk is often very minimal. Yet in rare cases, injury has been associated with chiropractic care. The types of complications that have been reported secondary to chiropractic care include: sprain/strain injuries, irritation of a disc condition, and rarely, fractures. One of the rarest complications associated with chiropractic care occurring at a rate between one instance per one million to one per two million cervical spine (neck) adjustments may be a vertebral injury that could lead to a stroke.

Prior to receiving chiropractic care in this office, a health history and physical examination will be completed. These procedures are performed to assess your specific conditions, your overall health, and in particular, your spinal health. These procedures will assist us in determining if chiropractic care is needed, and if any further examinations or studies are needed. In addition, they will help us determine if there is any reason to modify your care or provide you with a referral to another health care provider. All relevant findings will be reported to you along with a care plan prior to beginning care.
